

KENDALL NELSON – FILMMAKER BIO

Kendall Nelson is an award-winning documentary filmmaker with over two decades of experience in television and film. She has directed, produced and distributed media that matters. She advocates for health freedom, real food, and simple living and is deeply committed to creating a better future for the next generation.

Nelson began her career as a photographer, with her work exhibited in museums and published in National Geographic Online, Camera Arts, Photo District News and USA Today. She later transitioned into filmmaking, publishing her book Gathering Remnants: A Tribute to the Working Cowboy before directing the documentary of the same name. The film, which aired internationally, was nominated for Best Documentary by the Documentary Channel in 2011.

Her documentary The Greater Good explores the vaccine controversy and has been seen by over 20 million people. It won the Koroni Award from the Alabama School of Public Health and the Cinematic Vision Award at the Amsterdam Film Festival. The film aired on Current TV, Amazon Prime, Hulu, and international networks, including RT and Alhurra TV, in 17 Arabic-speaking countries.

In addition to filmmaking, Nelson is the vaccine consultant for the WAPF. She tracks and creates action alerts for hundreds of vaccine-related bills and writes the vaccination updates section for Wise Traditions Journal. She is also an honorary board member of the WAPF.

As a passionate advocate for proper nutrition and the WAPF's principles, Nelson is excited to bring this important film to life through her production company, Cinema-Story Entertainment, LLC. She has assembled a skilled and experienced team, including a talented cinematographer and editor, to ensure the highest quality production. With her deep commitment to the foundation's principles and extensive experience in both media and advocacy, Nelson is uniquely positioned to tell this story in a way that resonates with audiences and brings the message of the WAPF to the forefront. Fully prepared, she's ready to share this powerful story with the world.
